Dear CO-OP members,

It’s National Mental Health month and as such we are theming this month's CO-OP newsletter around all things mental health-related. The National Alliance on Mental Health is encouraging healthcare providers and all people to help them amplify the message of “Together for Mental Health” for 2022’s Mental Health Awareness Month. You might see things like social media trends like #MHAM or #Together4MH as part of this awareness campaign. Member Spotlight

Dr. Kerry Nolte is an assistant professor of nursing at the University of New Hampshire and a Family Nurse Practitioner at a Federally Qualified Community Health Center. Kerry’s research interests focus on reducing drug-related harm and Kerry is a founding member of the New Hampshire Harm Reduction Coalition. Kerry is co-investigator on the Drug Injection Surveillance and Care Enhancement for Rural Northern New England (DISCERNNE) and Project Director of the Harm Reduction Education and Technical Assistance
Project. Please enjoy reading what Kerry had to say about her impressive work and contributions!

What made you decide to join the Dartmouth CO-OP?

“After providing primary care as a family nurse practitioner and then returning to education for my Ph.D., I have found the CO-OP to be an amazing network of those interested in generating new, clinically relevant knowledge. When working in primary care, our practice didn't participate in research and then in my Ph.D. program, much of the research was disconnected from what was clinically feasible. I love that the CO-OP seeks to meet in the middle and make those worlds connected.”

What research have you done with the CO-OP before?

“I have participated in provider surveys and have been guided in my work by many of the focal topics from meetings, namely Adverse Childhood Experiences and substance use. In my faculty role, I often meet with many preceptors across the region and it has been a great resource to connect other clinicians to.”

What do you enjoy most about your current work, both as an assistant professor and a family nurse practitioner?

“I really enjoy the balance of research, teaching, and my clinical practice. I always want to change things for the better and I have a great choice of your own adventure-like balance. The group of researchers I work with in harm reduction are the most supportive and compassionate folks I have ever worked with!”

What advice would you give to someone looking to become more involved in behavioral health?

“If you are in touch with people who use drugs or are struggling with mental health, talk to them. Where have they felt seen, heard, and supported? Seek out learning opportunities and mentorship from those places. In all realms, but especially behavioral health, if you feel like you know all the answers, you aren't listening enough.”

What’s something about you that people might not know?

“I'm moderately obsessed with hippos and know lots of hippo facts like they are the deadliest animal (besides humans) in Africa and are nocturnal and graze at night.”
In the past month, we have seen great progress in our ongoing research projects, as well as our upcoming project proposals. While some roadblocks have proved challenging to overcome, forward momentum has been made and we are excited to share some of our recent CO-OP research projects’ successes with you all.

Project Updates:

- Clinician & Patient Utilization of Expanded Age Range for the HPV Vaccine and Shared-Decision Making. PI: Maureen Boardman MSN, FNP-C, FAANP
  - Current State: Data collection has begun on this project and surveys have been distributed to both clinicians and patients. Responses have been coming in and, even though our target response number is still a ways away, the turnout so far has been promising.
  - Involvement: If you are a practicing clinician in a Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) in the states of Vermont or New Hampshire, please contact Maureen Boardman (Maureen.B.Boardman@dartmouth.edu OR MBoardman@littlerivers.org) if you would like to take the clinician survey accompanying this project.

- Overcoming COVID-19 Vaccine Hesitancy in Rural Northern New England for Adults. PI: Maureen Boardman MSN, FNP-C, FAANP
  - Current State: The project has made great headway and looks to keep the momentum going, clinic sites have received materials for survey distribution, and data collection will begin shortly. A new clinic site for this project has recently been added and will be brought up to speed in the next few weeks.

- The Cover Health Care Workers Project: COVID-19 Protection to Ensure Resilient Health Care Workers. PIs: Andrea Cassells, MPH; Maureen Boardman, MSN, FNP-C, FAANP

● Current State: Currently the early intervention group, Lamoille Health Partners, has received their training in November 2021 and is concluding shortly. The late intervention group, Little Rivers Health Care, is slated to begin training at the end of May, and beginning of June 2022.

● ACEs in Community Practice: Correlating Patient’s Distress, Desire to Discuss with their Clinician and with Resilience. PI: Patricia Glowa, MD Study Team: Ardis Olson, MD
  ○ Primary Objective: Examine whether ACEs distress is still present, whether patients want to discuss it with their clinicians, and whether there is a correlation with their self-perceived resilience on a standardized questionnaire.
  ○ Study Population: Convenience sample of adults presenting to seven primary care practices in Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont for wellness/preventative care exam or follow-up of chronic health concerns. Data was collected from 238 patients.
  ○ Current State: This study is currently finalizing data analysis and is in the early stages of manuscript preparation.

Upcoming Research Project Proposals:

  ○ Primary Objective: Identifying and addressing the inefficiencies in primary care practice that lead to burden and burnout for providers and staff, and the gaps in care and other safety concerns for patients.
  ○ Involvement: There will be lots of opportunities for participation by CO-OP practices in this project. If this sounds interesting and you want to hear more about the project as it develops, please contact DartmouthCO-OPNNEPBRN@Hitchcock.org
  ○ Current State: Several CO-OP members are working on a grant proposal to fund an AHRQ Patient Safety Learning Lab focused on rural primary care. The CO-OP will partner with Jim Benneyan, the director of the Health Systems Engineering Institute at Northeastern University. Jim has been a successful collaborator on 4 of these grants in the past and has worked with researchers at MaineHealth in the past as well. The group is working towards a May deadline for submitting a proposal.
On March 22nd, the Dartmouth CO-OP NNE PBRN Board of Governors met to discuss current ongoing projects, potential projects, strategic planning, as well as general CO-OP updates. The Board of Governors welcomed Beth Wilson, the new chair of the Department of Community and Family Medicine (CFMed). In addition to welcoming the new CFMed Chair, the board discussed the next steps and future goals for the CO-OP. One key takeaway from this discussion was the goal to expand relationships and connections with community organizations. The next actionable steps will be announced after the June Board of Governors meeting.
