

#SayHerName: Intersectionality and Violence Against Black Women and Girls

2019 Lecture Series
Dartmouth College
Free and Open to the Public

July 9 · Filene Auditorium

4:30–5:45pm:

Beth Richie

*Black Feminist Responses to Gender Violence:
The Case for Abolition Politics and Praxis*

6:00–6:45pm:

Beth Richie and Laurel Richie

From Margin to Center: Our Journeys to Academic Leadership

July 11 · 4:30–6pm · Rockefeller 3

Brittney Cooper

The Future of Black Feminism (In Theory)

July 18 · 4:30–6pm · Filene Auditorium

Salamishah Tillet

Self-Care as an Act of Political Warfare

July 25 · 4:30–6pm · Filene Auditorium

Dora Santana

Presente! On black/trans (im)possibilities of proximity, intimacy, and togetherness

August 1 · 4:30–6pm · Filene Auditorium

Kimberlé Crenshaw

*From #MeToo and #BlackLivesMatter to #SayHerName: Centering
Black Women and Girls*

August 8 · 4:30–6pm · Filene Auditorium

Kristie Dotson

Beyond the 'Now': Epistemic Oppression and the 'Common' Sense of Mass Incarceration

Co-sponsored by Office of the President, Office of the Provost, Office of the Dean of Faculty, Leslie Center for the Humanities, Women's, Gender & Sexuality Studies, African and African American Studies, Department of Philosophy, Department of Government.

Co-organizers: Shatema Threadcraft and Susan Brison. For further information, please contact Kelly L. Palmer at Kelly.L.Palmer@Dartmouth.edu