Geisel/DH Team Lead Rural Lung Cancer Screening Project

Lung cancer remains the leading cause of cancer deaths in the United States, yet less than 6 percent of eligible individuals nationwide receive screening. To help fix that problem, a team at Dartmouth Health and the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth has worked to destigmatize the process and increase lung cancer screening rates for rural communities in New Hampshire and Vermont.

IN BRIEF

Correction: In the June 10 Insider, we incorrectly stated that Jennifer Loros, Professor of Biochemistry and Cell Biology and of Molecular and Systems Biology, received the Lifetime Award for Research, Mentoring, and Service from the Society for Research on Biological Rhythms at the biennial meeting held in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The correct name of the award is the Society for Research on Biological Rhythm's Director's Award for Research, Mentoring, and Service. Additionally, Jay Dunlap, PhD, the Nathan Smith Professor of Molecular and Systems Biology and of Biochemistry and Cell Biology, also received the award.
